ENVIRONMENTAL LEADERSHIP

Imagine. You serve over 8 million people in the heart of the UK, supplying nearly two billion quarts of drinking water a day to the highest standards in Europe. You take away used water, treat it at over 1,000 sewage works and put it safely back into rivers and streams. You started as a highly developed and diversified water authority. Now, your goal is to become an international environmental services company.

So what do you do?

You look to Stoner Associates and ASI to convert and translate your facilities data. ASI takes your dissimilar source documents of landbase maps, water main and customer records, PRV and meter database files, DMA (paper) plans, existing GIS files, and pump and reservoir schematics, and immediately implements a “work batch” system to coordinate and track your sources. In partnership with Stoner Associates, ASI analyzes the source formatting variances between your 15 records offices and develops a plan to ensure input of the most up-to-date and accurate information available.

Success

Through your new data management system, you ensure good business decisions that provide your customers with all the water they need whenever they need it.
